

Besides the drawings of suns, baskets and nets in the Shoshone caves, we find a more figurative drawing of an animal. The artist, like Heidi, knows this animal has a head, a back, a tail, two ears or horns, and four legs. It might be two bison, facing off. Or two male antelope. Or two wolves. Or two horses. The tails are short and held high.

Rose Tree Ranch, animal, petroglyph images, Hohokam Classic Period, American Southwest, A.D. 1100- A.D. 1450.

What animals do you and your child see in the cave drawing?

